PROVIDER EHR

Key takeaways

- Enables a better patient care experience
- Offers rapid access to timely, complete patient histories
- Reduces physician, nurse and office staff workload
- Provides full integration across the continuum of care

Quality community healthcare depends on physicians having the time to engage fully with patients. In a day full of back-to-back appointments, they need to gain a clear understanding of medical histories and immediate needs without delay, so time in the examination room is spent observing and listening to patients, not dealing with technology.

Thrive's Provider EHR is a complete clinical documentation and practice management solution for ambulatory care, developed for the rural and community setting.

Its optimized design frees up time for physicians, nurses and office staff, with workflows that help every part of the practice run smoothly throughout the day. With more attention focused on patients, this creates a better experience from when patients walk through the door to the moment they leave, confident that they've received the best medical care.

Enabling a holistic view of every patient

Provider EHR connects to the single patient record database at the heart of the Thrive solution, for a timely, continuous and comprehensive inpatient and ambulatory history. Records, including visit notes and orders, are automatically updated at every encounter whether in the practice or at the hospital. The system also offers the ability to store images and scanned documents such as referrals, insurance cards and photo IDs, keeping all information in one place and available when needed.

Simplifying practice management

The solution covers the full spectrum of business and patient information management activities, from scheduling to accounting and insurance claims processing. Integration with patient data fosters more accurate coding and reimbursement. Workflows are highly automated and can be customized to suit the individual practice to reduce complexity and staff workload.

Making the most of time with patients

The design and workflows in Thrive Provider EHR are consistent with the Thrive EHR system used in the hospital, providing a uniform user experience for the physician. Template-driven documentation means less time spent charting. And a customizable tracking board shows the status of every patient, helping keep the whole practice focused on the next task and running like clockwork. This all translates into a better doctor-patient conversation that can lead to better outcomes.
